This privacy notice tells you how we (Newcastle University Student Recruitment Team) handle your personal information. Please read it carefully and contact us if you have any queries. We would strongly encourage you to speak to a parent/carer or teacher should you have any concerns or questions.

Why we collect your data

We collect your data to:

- Evaluate and report on the impact and effectiveness of the event

We believe that the work we carry out to promote wider engagement and participation in higher education is carried out in the public interest. We need to ensure that the money we receive from government funding agencies is spent appropriately and has a positive impact. In order to measure impact and to conduct our activities, we need to collect your data. You are, however, under no obligation to provide this data and failure to do so will have no effect on future applications to Newcastle University.

We ask for some data from you that is considered as special category data by data protection law. We ask you to tell us your ethnic background. Under data protection law we are able to ask for your ethnic background as Newcastle University has a duty in the public interest to report on student ethnic background to the Office for Students and we undertake research to ensure that there is diverse participation in all of our events and activities.

What we will use your data for

Your data will be used for reporting, research, and monitoring and evaluation purposes.

How we store your data

We will take all appropriate technical and organisational measures to keep your data secure. All data will be stored in accordance with data protection laws and other applicable legislation. After this time anonymised data will be archived and retained for research, monitoring and evaluation purposes.

If you withdraw from any of the activities or events provided by Newcastle University Student Recruitment Team, your data will be held for tracking purposes unless you specifically inform us that you do not want your data to be used. In order to evaluate and report on the impact and effectiveness of our events, your data will be shared with the Higher Education Access Tracker (HEAT), run by the University of Kent. We will share your data with the Department for Education and/or with the other organisations HEAT works with. HEAT has access to government data sets and will inform us about your progression to higher education, your success in higher education and career paths post-higher education. As well as with its key personnel and the supplier which maintains its database, HEAT may share your data with official providers of education data including the Higher Education Statistics Agency (further information on how HESA use your data can be found here), UCAS, the Department for Education, the Office for Students, the National Pupil Database and other agencies for research purposes only. Any sharing of data in this way will be agreed with the HEAT governance and steering groups. Sharing your data to evaluate and report on the impact of our events will not affect you individually. For all reporting purposes, creation of evaluation reports or Freedom of Information requests, your data will be aggregated and made anonymous. You will not be individually identified in any reports and confidentiality will be maintained at all times. You can access the HEAT privacy notice here.
